

ROOSEVELT MAY TAKE A HAND

Attitude of the Navy Department Against Schley Displeases Him.

APPROVED BY LONG

Gov. Crane of Massachusetts, Has Been Offered Place Vacated by Gage.

LONG DECIDES TO GO

Washington, Dec. 21.—Secretary of the Navy Long at noon approved the findings of the Schley court of inquiry.

After saying that the findings of fact and opinion of the full court are approved the secretary continues "as to points on which the presiding member differs from the opinion of the majority of the court. The opinion of the majority is approved by the same member in regard to an expression of command on the morning of July 3, and of the title to credit for the ensuing victory. The conduct of the court in making no finding and no opinion on these questions is approved, as it could with propriety take no other course, the evidence on these questions during the inquiry having been executed by the court and the department approves the recommendation of the court that no further proceeding be had in the premises."

After approving the findings Long sent a letter to Sampson notifying him that no action would be taken in his protest against Dowey's supplementary views.

Roosevelt is interested. President Roosevelt is reported today to have interested himself in the attitude of the navy department with regard to Schley. He is alleged to have said at a recent cabinet meeting that while technically he might not have the right to review the verdict, his position as commander in chief of the navy gave him the right, if he cared to exercise it. He did not directly that he would dip into the controversy, but made it clear he would take a hand if he felt so disposed.

CRANE WILL SUCCEED GAGE

Governor of Massachusetts to Be Secretary of the Treasury

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—Governor W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, it is declared here, is to be the successor of Lyman J. Gage as Secretary of the Treasury. The rumor that Mr. Gage is to retire has been confirmed. No date has been fixed, but in all likelihood it will be soon. This is the second change in President Roosevelt's Cabinet and others are likely to follow soon. It is asserted that when Secretary Gage retires Ellis H. Roberts, Treasurer of the United States; O. L. Spaulding and H. A. Taylor, assistant secretaries, will all quit the department.

LONG TO GO SOON

Secretary Long's resignation is practically in the hands of the President now because it was well understood at the time of the tragedy at Buffalo that the Secretary of the Navy would remain only until the Schley controversy was disposed of. Secretary Hitchcock will also retire within a short time, it is understood, and his successor is likely to be some one west of the Missouri river.

CRANE AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Governor Crane arrived in this city at 7:45 a. m. He drove at once to the White House and took breakfast with the President. This fact was kept secret by the attaches of the White House and the visit of the Governor of Massachusetts at this time was not announced in the ordinary way at all. By a singular coincidence, or perhaps no less by a singular design, Governor Crane and Secretary Gage came over from New York on the same train, which left there at midnight and arrived here before breakfast. The Governor went at once to the Arlington, registered as W. M. Crane, Dalton, Mass., and after removing some of the stains of travel started for the White House for breakfast, showing conclusively that he came by appointment.

CRANE LIKELY TO ACCEPT

Mr. Crane was summoned here for consultation over the Treasury portfolio. He was asked outright either to take the position himself or to suggest the name of some one else, and the understanding is that Governor Crane will accept the Treasury portfolio if he can settle matters in Massachusetts. He was elected for a second term and under ordinary circumstances will have to be inaugurated on Jan. 1. There is some uncertainty as to whether it would be better for him to be inaugurated and then resign, or to decline to qualify entirely, and allow the Lieutenant Governor to be inaugurated at once in his place.

Jersey City, N. J., December 21.—The east bound passenger on the Erie railroad was derailed this morning at Bergen Tunnel. The engineer and several passengers were injured.

THREE NEGROES SHOT DEAD.

Killed by a Young Kentuckian in a Saloon at Davy, W. Va.

Welch, W. Va., Dec. 21.—Wayne Demon, 18 years old, shot three negroes to death in a saloon in the mining town of Davy, this county. In the evening. It was pay day at the Davy mines and the negroes had begun their holiday celebration. When about a dozen of the black men entered Eugene Dye's saloon on the leading street, revolvers in hand, and demanded that all the white men retire the trouble began. The bartender stepped into an adjoining room for his pistol and all the other white men save Demon made a run to get away. Demon pulled his revolver and in a twinkling had shot three of the negroes and the others were falling over themselves to get away. In the excitement Demon, whose home is in Catlettsburg, Ky., left the saloon by a rear door and up to a late hour at night had not been captured. In fact, but very little effort is being made to apprehend him. He is an assistant bookkeeper for Cole, Crane & Co. of Cincinnati, who are engaged extensively in timbering in this county.

GAGE AND LONG WILL BOTH GO OUT

Notified President That They Will Retire from the Cabinet—Hay Will Stay.

Washington, Dec. 21.—Secretary of the Treasury Gage has informally resigned from the cabinet but has agreed to remain in office until March 1, or until his successor is chosen. The new secretary of the Treasury is expected to come from New England.

Secretary of the Navy Long has signified to the president his intention to resign soon, probably when the Schley case shall have been disposed of, and there is little doubt that his successor will be Judge Taft, now president of the Philippine commission.

Secretary of State Hay is to remain permanently as a member of the cabinet of President Roosevelt. Only yesterday the president urged Mr. Hay to give his promise to remain throughout the administration and Mr. Hay consented.

Secretary of War Root and Attorney General Knox will also remain permanently in the Roosevelt cabinet. This much is settled. In all probability Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson will also remain indefinitely.

MRS. DALE'S CASE IS HEARD

Grand Jury Takes Up Murder Charge—Report Expected Friday.

New York, Dec. 21.—The case of Mrs. Elizabeth Howe Dale, who was charged with the murder of her 5-year-old daughter, Emeline, by poison, was before the Hudson county (New Jersey) grand jury. The witnesses who were called were Police Captain Hayer of Hoboken, Dr. William T. Kudlitz, who attended the child shortly before her death, and several waiters and other employees of the two hotels at which Mrs. Dale stayed. The grand jury was in session until late in the afternoon. Court officers say that probably no report will be made on the case before next Friday. Should there be delay upon the part of the grand jury counsel for Mrs. Dale will ask for her release on bail. The amount fixed by the court is $7,500.

LORD FRANCIS HOPE IS SHOT.

His Ankle Is Shattered by a Careless Servant.

London, Dec. 21.—While Lord Francis Hope, the husband of May Yohe, was hunting with a party at the Earl of Aylesford's estate at Packington hall, near Coventry, a servant fired accidentally and the shot shattered Lord Francis Hope's ankle. The foot will be saved with difficulty. Lord Francis Hope has recently been in the public eye because of the elopement of his wife, May Yohe, the actress, with Captain Bradley Strong, son of the former mayor of New York. The couple are now understood to be in Japan. May Yohe is a Chicago woman, well known on the vaudeville stage prior to the time she secured a title by her alliance with Lord Hope.

BADGER STATE TELEPHONE WAR

Attempt of Independent Companies to Get Into Milwaukee.

NEED COMPETITION

Janesville Merchants Have Two 'Phones, and Pay Less Than Formerly for One.

IT SCARES MONOPOLY

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 21.—Testimony is being gathered by the common council of Milwaukee on the question of competition in telephones and it is interesting to note that there is a growing opinion not only among the members of the council, but in business circles, that competition will be a good thing. There has been too much of the spirit that "We are the whole thing" in dealing with the public the last few years on the part of the monopoly.

Monopoly Begins to Kneel. The agitation of the question before the council of franchises for two rival telephone companies is already having a salutary effect upon the Wisconsin company which has for many years enjoyed a very profitable monopoly. Already, it is said, agents of the Wisconsin company are negotiating with the independent lines in the state for an arrangement by which the independents may enter the city on the Wisconsin company's lines. Heretofore the old company has acted arrogantly in this matter, and its officers—theory of the Bell and Erie system, of which it is a part—have been beyond reach.

Cheap Telephones in Janesville. According to the statement of Richard Valentine, secretary of the Rock River Valley Telephone company, before the Bell company had opposition in Janesville it charged $4 a month for business telephones and gave connection with only 300 subscribers. Mr. Valentine says:

"The independent telephone company cut the rate to $2 per month for a 'business' telephone and gives connections with 800 subscribers, and will have 1,000 within a year. The Bell company immediately reduced its rate to $1.50 a month for a 'business' telephone and increased its list of subscribers to about 400. You will therefore see that a subscriber can have both telephones for 50 cents a month less than he formerly paid for the Bell phone alone, and at the same time have connection with 1,200 subscribers instead of 300. The same conditions obtain wherever independent telephone systems have been installed."

Rates Should Be Lower. It is believed, however, that if another franchise is granted it should be provided that the maximum rates should not be over one-half those charged by the Wisconsin-Erie company. Representatives of independent lines say that they are making money at rates of $2 for business and $1.50 and $1.25 a month for residence telephones. Mr. Valentine says the Janesville company is making 20 per cent profit at these rates. The representative of the Madison independent exchange, Mr. Winter, says he believes an independent system in Milwaukee could give a rate of $4 a month for unlimited business service and make a good profit.

GETS $7,500,000 AS A BIRTHDAY GIFT

Reginald C. Vanderbilt, Youngest Son of Cornelius, Has Reached the Legal Age of 21.

New York, Dec. 21.—Reginald C. Vanderbilt, the youngest son of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, celebrated today his twenty-first birthday, and received under the provisions of his father's will, his full inheritance of $7,500,000 as a birthday gift. Young Vanderbilt is now a Yale senior and came down from New Haven this morning for the purpose of taking legal possession of his fortune. That formality performed, he returned to New Haven to reside at a birthday dinner, to which he had invited a number of his college friends.

As young Vanderbilt was one of the beneficiaries of the $20,000,000 trust fund created by his father for the benefit of his children, his total fortune may now be estimated at $12,500,000.

CHRISTMAS AT WHITE HOUSE

Children of the President Living in High Expectation.

STOCKINGS ARE UP

Chief Executive in Rough Rider Uniform to Impersonate Old Kriss Kringle.

TO ATTEND CHURCH

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—The President and Mrs. Roosevelt realize the keen interest which the young people take in the Christmas plans of the Roosevelt children and therefore permitted their publication today of the general outline of the programme. Notwithstanding the impatience of the youngsters to view their Christmas gifts they will be confined to the nursery until about 7 in the morning. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt will then accompany the members of the family to the family sitting room, where the mantel and fireplace will be adorned with well-filled stockings.

This will be a family affair and full of merriment, as the rule will be rigidly enforced that all including the all powerful president, starts evenly with the rest in the examination of his stockingful of gifts.

Will Attend Church. After viewing and comparing gifts the family will breakfast together and then attend church services at their respective places of worship. At one o'clock luncheon will be served and the dinner for the family is scheduled for 5 in the afternoon.

In the evening the family party will proceed to the residence of Commander Cowles, where a brilliant Christmas tree will be lighted for the benefit of the youngsters. It is whispered unofficially, but with a knowing air, that the president himself will play Santa Claus at this merry gathering, and that he will wear a rough rider uniform because it has a number of pockets.

An Old Family Nurse

Mrs. Mary Ledwith, known to the Roosevelt children as "Mame," has arrived at the White House. Besides her personal belongings she brought five mysterious trunks. These are supposed to contain the gifts of the entire Roosevelt family connection. There are at least 200 relatives of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Mrs. Ledwith was the nurse of Mrs. Roosevelt's mother, of herself, her sister and of all the Roosevelt children. Henceforth Mrs. Ledwith will live at the White House, and during the busy social season will assume the direction of the children. Besides the gifts under the guardian care of Mrs. Ledwith scores of presents are arriving at the White House.

TROUBLE IN PERSIAN GULF.

Shelk of Kowyt Refuses to Allow Sultan's Mission to Land.

Bombay, Dec. 21.—It is feared here that fresh trouble is brewing on the Persian gulf. Mabarouk, the Shelk of Kowat, the proposed terminus of the Bagdad railroad, has recently refused to allow a special commission, sent by Sultan from Constantinople, to land, and declined to accede to the Sultan's desire that he visit the Yildiz palace at Constantinople and make obeisance to his suzerain. Mabarouk has also threatened a revival of the troubles with Idu Rashid, the Emir of Nefj, who, at the instigation of the Turks, has collected a fresh army. Mabarouk has again appealed for British protection. At Kowat are the British third-class cruiser Pomone and gunboat Redbreast. The Russian American-built cruiser Varlag has arrived in the Persian gulf. Her powerful searchlights and heavy guns have greatly impressed the natives. The Varlag's commander is paying marked attention to the Sultan of Muscat, and Russian doctors are investigating the healthfulness of Ormuz Kish, opposite Bander Abbas.

RUMOR THAT JUDGE BUNN MAY RETIRE

Reported That He Will Be Succeeded by J. J. Jenkins—Denies the Report.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Dec. 21.—A local paper asserts that Judge Romanzo Bunn of the United States court for the Western district of Wisconsin will retire in February, and be succeeded by John J. Jenkins.

The report as printed is: "Hon. John J. Jenkins of this city, will be the next appointment from Wisconsin. It seems to be quite generally understood that Mr. Jenkins will succeed Judge Bunn as United States circuit judge. If the appointment is made it will necessitate Mr. Jenkins moving to Madison. A place on the United States bench is for life. Judge Bunn will retire on account of his age some time in February. A position of this kind it is understood would be more congenial to Mr. Jenkins than politics."

Says He Will Stay on Bench

Madison, Wis., Dec. 21.—Judge Romanzo Bunn of the United States court for the Western district of Wisconsin today positively denied that he had resigned or was contemplating resigning.

"As long as my health continues as good as it is at present," he declared, "I intend to remain on the bench."

PROMPTLY KNOCKS THE FELLOW DOWN

A Stranger Approached President Roosevelt on the Street, Laid Hand on His Arm and Shouted

Washington, Dec. 21.—President Roosevelt while walking along Massachusetts avenue Thursday evening was approached by a stranger who laid his hand on the president's arm and shouted. It is reported, the president thereupon promptly knocked the fellow down and passed on, with his friends. The secret service and the police departments profess to be without knowledge of the encounter. Lord Pauncefoot is said to have witnessed it.

It was learned this afternoon that the man who is believed to have made the attack was intoxicated and either stumbled against the president or aimed a blow at him. The man fell to the sidewalk. A secret service man who was a few feet behind the presidential party assisted in upsetting him. The unknown was taken away by a companion. No effort was made to detain him.

TRUST SIGNS LAKE MEN.

Steel Company and Marine Engineers Clash Over Next Year's Work.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 21.—The United States Steel Corporation and the Marine Engineers' association have locked horns for next season's work on the steel trust boats.

Joseph F. Hayes, chief engineer of the steel trust fleet, has been actively signing contracts with his old engineers for next season. He did not wait until the men had reached their home ports and had been infused with strong union sentiments. Mr. Hayes went from one port to another and caught his men as they were laying up their engines. It is said that a big majority of the engineers signed the steel trust's contract, notwithstanding President Uhler's instructions to members of the Marine Engineers' union not to make any arrangements for next season until a meeting was held. While the steel trust is thus actively engaged in trying to head off another engineers' strike on its steamers next spring outside vessel owners look upon the prospect of another strike with much complacency.

Working in Canada

The banking business in Canada is on a different plan from that in this country. The headquarters of most of the banks throughout the Dominion is in Ontario, either at Hamilton, Kingston or Toronto. Each bank has its central office, generally in one of the cities named, and as many branches as it cares to maintain in different parts of Canada, some of these branches being as far distant as Dawson.

XMAS MUSIC AT THE CHURCHES

Beautiful Services and Ceremonies Appropriate to the Occasion.

SONGS OF PRAISE

Houses of Worship Are Lavishly Decorated with Holly, Plants and Flowers.

PROGRAMS IN DETAIL

Tomorrow will be Christmas Sunday and the day will be observed with beautiful and appropriate services in the churches of the city. To many people the sacred meaning of the Christmas time is best exemplified in the church service. From every pulpit in the city tomorrow some message will be brought from the manger in the stable at Bethlehem to the worshippers in the pews.

In the Episcopal and Catholic churches the Christmas services are held on Christmas morning. Following the custom of many years the birthday of Christ will be ushered in at Trinity church by a midnight communion service for which an especially fine musical program is being prepared and which will begin Christmas eve at 11:30 o'clock. The morning services will be held at 7:30 and 10 o'clock. At Christ church the celebration of the Holy Communion will be held at 8 o'clock and the morning service, sermon and second celebration will be at 11 o'clock. The usual early morning masses will be held at St. Patrick's and St. Mary's churches.

In the evangelical churches the Christmas services of a sacred nature will be held tomorrow and Christmas eve will be devoted to Christmas trees and jollifications for the little people of the Sunday school. In most of the churches the special services for tomorrow will consist of Christmas sermons by the pastors and special music by the choirs. At the Congregational and Presbyterian churches there will be sacred concerts by the children in the evening. Music has become a great factor in the church especially in special services. The Christmas music is particularly beautiful and inspiring and an extra effort has been made in all the churches to have the services rich with beautiful melodies appropriate to the season.

Congregational Church

The morning service at the Congregational church will be held at 10:30 o'clock with a sermon by the pastor, Rev. Robert C. Denison, on "The Glory of God." The church Bible school will meet at 12 m. and the Young Peoples' meeting at 6 p. m.; will be a Christmas service, the subject being "Our Gifts to Our King." The evening service at 7 o'clock will be devoted to the sacred concert given by the children of the Sunday school and the children's choir. The program will consist of concert selections by the little people, recitations by Mabel Strang, Emmett Murphy, Carrie Inman, Charlotte Hughes and others and songs by the Children's choir, who will give all the musical program for the evening with the exception of the introductory number. IMPROVEMENTS IN CHURCH BUILDING

Carpenters are at work on the interior of the Congregational church and some much needed improvements are being made in the part of the building at the rear of the main auditorium.

Partitions have been torn out and changed, waste room has been utilized and when the work is finished the rooms at the rear of the church will be much more conveniently arranged. The partitions have been extended so that there is only a small hallway at the entrance and the hallway, which extended along the side of the parlors has been converted into a gentleman's cloak room.

A part of the hallway and the closet under the stairs leading to the Sunday school room have been transformed into a ladies' cloak room and toilet room and the stairs have been broadened and greatly improved, a platform having been placed at the turning and the door, which keeps the cold air of the hall from chilling the Sunday school room, being placed at the landing instead of at the head of the stairs, the former inconvenient arrangement.

A door has been cut into the north wall of the main parlor from the hall and the large stove has been moved into the corner thus giving more available room. The small room, which was sometimes used by the ladies as a cloak room, will be utilized as a boys' club room. The boys' club is one of the philanthropic movements which the pastor and some of the members of the church hope to see realized in the near future.

The church kitchen has also been enlarged by tearing out the pantry and throwing the two rooms together. Closets for the dishes will be built on the walls. A larger kitchen had practically become a necessity. At the last church supper, which was so largely patronized that the waiters were kept busy for nearly two hours, 250 people were served in exactly one hour during the time of the greatest rush.

"About five years ago I was troubled with catarrh of the lower bowel," says C. T. Chisholm, 484 Dearborn Ave., Chicago, and although I consulted several eminent physicians who prescribed for me, I found their remedies failed to in any way relieve me, and the trouble almost became chronic. After suffering several months, I one day concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and I beg to assure you that I was most agreeably surprised to find after taking two doses of the remedy that I was completely relieved of the disease that had cost me so much trouble and annoyance. I am thankful to say that I have not suffered from it since. For sale by Peoples' Drug Store and King's Pharmacy.

Painters' Union Permanently Organized, with Membership of 25—Dance Business Overdone.

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 21.—The painters' union was permanently organized Thursday evening with a membership of twenty-five men. Organizer Hogan of Janesville installed the officers, and he with Messrs. O. C. Chatfield and Wm. Strand made short talks of interest. The following is a complete list of the officers: President, H. E. Shattuck; V. Pres., Mr. Hopper; Rec. Sec., C. H. Cushman; Fin. Sec., Levi Briggs; Treas., James Terman; Con., S. G. Jerome; Warden, James Falkenstein; trustees, H. H. Sweet, J. J. Ward, L. F. Briggs; Delegates to Trades Council, H. E. Shattuck, James Terman, L. F. Briggs.

The dance business has been sadly overdone in Beloit this season, and as a consequence there is a deficit in more than one society treasury. As a general thing Beloit people have always liberally patronized the various dances and the city has borne the reputation of being one of the greatest dancing towns in the country.

Wm. Young, a young man of 20 whose home is in Durand, but who has been employed in the Dow knife works was the victim of a most unfortunate accident this morning which will be the means of incapacitating him from work for a long time to come. He was engaged in moving some machinery and his right arm got caught in a pulley belt. In a trice the flesh was terribly mangled and the bone broken in two places. The young man is now in the city hospital.

The benefit performance of "Old Virginia" by Henry Kimmell, the author, and a company of local performers, last night at the opera house was a great success. Mr. Harrison D. Barrett, editor of the Boston Banner of Light and a noted lecturer and writer on spiritualism, gave a very interesting lecture last evening at the residence of J. B. Dow, Esq., to many invited guests.

This is the first time that every scene has been produced in this great play.

Eruptions

Dry, moist, scaly tetter, all forms of eczema or salt rheum, pimples and other cutaneous eruptions proceed from humors, either inherited, or acquired through defective digestion and assimilation.

To treat these eruptions with drying medicines is dangerous.

The thing to do is to help the system discharge the humors, and to strengthen it against their return.

Hood's Sarsaparilla permanently cured J. G. Hines, Franks, Ill., of eczema, from which he had suffered for some time, and Miss Alysia Wolter, Box 212, Algona, Wis., of pimples on her face and back and chafed skin on her body, by which she had been greatly troubled. There are more testimonials in favor of this great medicine than can be published.

LEMELY ANSWERS SCHLEY'S APPEAL

Judge Advocate Insists the Rear Admiral Had Fair Hearing.

SAYS THE VERDICT IS JUST.

Dewey Declared to Have Coincided in the Majority Report—Sampson Files
an Objection in Which He Says Dewey Is Wrong.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—Judge Advocate Lemly and Solicitor Hanna in the afternoon submitted to Secretary Long their report upon the bill of objections filed by Admiral Schley, through his counsel, to the findings of the Schley court of inquiry. In substance, this report is an argument supplementary to the argument made by the writers before the court of inquiry. The principal points are an insistence upon their contention that the first report is the unanimous report of the court of inquiry; that the court was justified in rejecting Admiral Schley's evidence by the number of witnesses who took issue with him; and that there is no sufficient reason for a reopening of the case. After referring to what they declare to be the difficulty in dealing with the "sweeping though unsupported assertion of opinion by the applicant," Judge Advocate Lemly and Mr. Hanna say in part:

"The findings of fact and the opinion of the court of inquiry in the case of Admiral Schley upon the more important and material points before it were not reached by a majority of the members only but by the entire court.

"The points of the precept upon which all the members of the court unite appear to be incontrovertibly established by the evidence; it is not understood how any other conclusions could have been reached upon them, and they constitute the essential features of the entire matter under inquiry."

Sampson Says Dewey Is Wrong.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—The objection of Rear Admiral W. T. Sampson to that portion of Admiral Dewey's report of the Schley court of inquiry in which he says Admiral Schley was in command at the battle of Santiago and entitled to credit for the victory, has been filed with Secretary Long. The document was brought to the Navy department by Mr. E. S. Theall, of counsel for Admiral Sampson and handed to the secretary. It is, in part, as follows:

"We have the honor to request that the department, for the reasons below stated, strike out or specifically disapprove that portion of Admiral Dewey's opinion filed in connection with the proceedings of the Schley court of inquiry in which he states his view to be that Commodore Schley was in absolute command at the navel battle of Santiago.

"1. Commodore Schley was not in command at that battle.

"2. The President of the United States and the Navy department had decided that Admiral Sampson was in command at that battle, and Commodore Schley second in command.

"3. The question as to who commanded at Santiago was not referred to the court for consideration and evidence bearing on the point was excluded.

"The minority opinion expressed by Admiral Dewey in this matter is at variance with all the rulings of the court in this regard and directly contradicts the letters wherein Admiral Dewey, for the court, defines Admiral Sampson's status."

FEAR SMALLPOX PRISONERS.

Armed Men in Kentucky Oppose Board of Health.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 21.—A serious clash of armed men is threatened at Cold Spring, Campbell county, Ky., a few miles south of Newport, over the question of taking care of jail prisoners who have the smallpox. The county board of health ordered the inmates of the new infirmary at Cold Spring removed to a hospital and the smallpox prisoners taken from the jail to the infirmary. When this became known bells were rung at Cold Spring and a citizens' meeting was held and under the leadership of Judge Brown armed men were sworn in and formed along the pike to prevent carrying out the orders of the board of health. Meantime an injunction was obtained from Judge Hodge and the sheriff began organizing an armed force to carry out the order of the board of health.

With this end in view a car load of ice will be shipped from Racine county next week, the arrest of the shipper to follow. Approximately 1,000,000 tons of ice are shipped out of the state annually.

Uruguay and Brazil Fear to Be Drawn
Into the Argentine-Chile Dispute—
May Buy New Warships—Peru and Bolivia Watching.

Buenos Ayres, Dec. 21.—In order to commemorate the formation of the League of Patriots here tens of thousands of young men paraded the streets in the evening cheering for Argentina, the Argentine army, President Roca, and ex-President Mitre, now President of the commission to settle the frontier dispute with Chile. The crowds of manifestants, estimated to have numbered as many as 80,000 persons, stopped and cheered before the offices of the various newspapers, where fiery addresses were made. The crowds then marched in the direction of President Roca's residence, before which the national hymn was sung. The President responded with an energetic speech, which was enthusiastically applauded. Then, for an hour, the crowds marched past the President's residence, shouting "No more diplomatic notes," "Let us have war sooner than that," "There were also some cries of "Death to the Chileans."

Other Republics Alarmed.

The Nation, referring to the international complications, says that the republic of Uruguay is much concerned, in view of the possibility of a conflict between Argentina and Chile, about her neutrality. UNAPPLIED ENERGIES.

"We'll make the water do the work." The two boys turned away from the barn where for hours they had been busy turning the crank to the little feed mill, and going out to the little stream near by, whose high banks formed a channel for the rapid current, were soon busily engaged in building a dam.

In a few days the work was completed and the homely water wheel at the end of the little raceway, was ready for the rope cable that was to transmit power to the mill not far away. When the attachment was made, the boys discovered that a small water wheel with the energy of water behind it, was worth more than muscle for steady power, and then they said, "Why didn't we think of it before?"

The little piece of flat steel wire that looks so helpless as you examine it in the factory, becomes a thing of life and wonderful energy, when properly coiled and tempered, and as the watch responds to the regular vibrations of the main spring, active and reliable in every movement, you realize that the innocent little wire contained great possibilities, that only required the touch of genius to make effective.

The pile of quartz, that lies by the smelter, has been a part of rock and mineral formation of the mountain for ages. You glance at it and say, "That looks like an ordinary pile of stone," but after it has been pulverized and melted, and you hold in your hand the product of a ton, representing a few ounces of refined gold, you marvel at the discoveries that science has perfected, both in locating the precious vein, and in separating from its old time environment, every particle of value.

If it were possible to follow the metal through the mint, and out into the journeys of helpfulness where it continues to travel, possessing the same enduring qualities in active service that it possessed when hidden away in the cavern, the energy of gold would be more fully appreciated. But the history of an individual gold piece has never been written. It is in the pocket of the farmer to-day, in the till of the merchant to-morrow, on a voyage across the ocean next week, always active, never complaining, full of life and energy, fulfilling many missions, because some enterprising and persistent miner has found it, to be released from its rock bound home and science and skill enticed it away, and civilized it for usefulness.

The heavy engine, attached to the long train, is helpless, until the lever loosens the steam, and then it takes on life, gathering momentum at every revolution, until a sixty mile pace develops, made possible by a combination of applied energies, and yet so commonplace that the average passenger devotes his time to complaining about the one-horse railroad and the tardy speed.

The modern electric railway, propelled by a current of electricity, that the hand of man has captured and utilized, is a display of energy that is as wonderful as it is difficult to appreciate. You stand by the generator in the power-house and watch the rapid revolutions as steam is applied, and when the current is flashed out over miles of wire in an instant of time—as deadly as the flash of lightning that darts from the low, hanging cloud, and yet harmless because under perfect control, yet full of live and helpful energy, when the conditions are met—and results are so common that the average mind fails to grasp with appreciation the fact that the great treasure house has been unlocked for the benefit of the new century.

The wide awake city of El Paso, with its 20,000 people, is separated from the old Mexican city of Juarez by the Rio Grande river. The one mule car, with a Mexican to hold the lines and do swearing and a boy to apply the whip, is the motive power that connects the two cities.

A careful survey of the outfit convinces the most casual observer that the entire energy of the mule is utilized, and when the passengers get out and help the little animal over a grade, it is, very, natural to suggest that the new electric line in process of construction should have been built some years ago.

The little pair of patient burros, so laden down with burdens, driven through the narrow streets by a burly Mexican mounted on a little animal that he could carry on his shoulder, are reminders of the fact, that old Mexico and the Palestine of ancient times, are not far removed, and that but little time has been wasted in developing energies. There are mission fields this side of Bulgaria, somewhat neglected.

The world of industry, by the aid of science and inventive genius, is making rapid strides in developing energies that have long been dormant. In some departments these developments are so rapid that surplus accumulates, as is the case at the present time with copper.

The new mines of Arizona and the far west are rapidly coming to the front, and are already recognized as sharp competitors of the old Hekla and Calumet fields. As a result the market is overstocked, and copper stocks have declined fifty per cent. within the past three weeks.

The same conditions prevail concerning oil. Six months ago, when the Beaumont fields were discovered, the first gusher was sold for $1,300,000. Today with forty gushers, capped and idle, because there is no demand for the output, the price has declined to $23,000, and a man with a flowing well is not envied.

While it is possible to overstock the market by the rapid development of hidden energies, it does not often occur, and time soon takes care of the surplus.

An All-Wise Creator builded with reference to a long future, and the oil and the mineral were so carefully concealed and so closely guarded, that waste was impossible, and after ages of rest and quiet accumulation, supply responds to the demands of civilization, with unstinted liberality.

The storehouse of nature is inexhaustible. It contains not only an abundant supply of all that contributes to the comfort of humanity, but it is filled with dormant energies that invite the hand of genius and science at every turn.

The arid valley that winds its way through the mountains, responds to the touch of irrigation and is transformed to a rich garden supplying the new cities that spring up in the foothills, with necessities and luxuries in abundance.

Nature can afford to wait development, because time is no object. A thousand years is but a day in the mountain's calendar, but in the realm of humanity, bounded by three score years and ten, conditions are different, and undiscovered energy and wasted talent, means loss that is irreparable.

The boy or girl who goes into life with undeveloped muscles, and a weak body, neglecting the laws of health, and destroying by dissipation an active and useful service, will be bankrupt in physical energy before middle life, and resting in the grave yard at fifty.

If the mind is neglected they become trailers in the procession before the race is fairly started, and spend a life in complaining at ill fate and an unlucky star.

There are a world of people who never discover themselves. Possessed of great possibilities, but energies are permitted to lie dormant, and life, which might have been successful, is noted for failure and discouragement.

The precious mineral, hid away in the cavern, is undisturbed, until the hand of man unlocks the treasure house, so the treasures of mind are undeveloped until a human will takes control.

The more sacred realm of the heart is filled with energies, that a little cultivation brings to the surface. The soil is frequently arid and the contour rough and uninviting, but touched by Divine influences, and encouraged by human sympathies, it responds as readily as the violet in the morning dew and sunlight.

The world will be better when the energies of mind and heart are more fully developed, and when the responsibilities of life are more fully appreciated.

HENRY C. PAYNE.

The appointment of Henry C. Payne to a cabinet position is an honor to the state as well as to the man.

Mr. Payne possesses executive ability that qualifies him for the office of postmaster-general and the service will improve under his administration. He combines with business ability, tact, and rare common sense. When he talks he says something, and has long enjoyed the reputation of knowing enough to keep still when he had nothing to say.

His appointment is a well merited rebuke to the class of cheap critics who never lose an opportunity to traduce his name, or malign his character.

The La Follette shouters will fail to get much comfort out of it, but they have troubles of their own, and the incident will soon be forgotten. The president knew what he was about and has made no mistake in selecting Mr. Payne.

Wisconsin is entitled to the recognition and there is no man in the ranks of the party better qualified to fill the responsible position. With Payne in the cabinet and Spooner and Quarles in the senate, the state may justly feel proud of her representatives.

The Milwaukee Free Press is so pure that it leans the wrong way in discussing the appointment of Henry C. Payne to the cabinet. The editor of the Milwaukee organ has had no love for Mr. Payne for some time. The latter will survive, while the people of the state generally will congratulate both Mr. Payne and the president.

The findings of the court of inquiry in the Schley case, should not cause the admiral annoyance. He has long enjoyed the approval of the court of public opinion, and the "well done thou good and faithful servant" has been generally accorded. He can afford to ignore the petty jealousies of rival officers. The little coterie is not large enough to wield much influence.

More cabinet changes are in the air. It is reported that Secretary Gage will resign, to engage in private business. Mr. Gage is recognized as a good financier, but his place will not be difficult to fill from a business standpoint.

If Governor La Follette has an ambition to run independent, if he fails to secure the regular nomination, he should be encouraged. The shortest route that has yet been discovered to a political graveyard, is the independent route.

The man who considers the source, when a mule kicks him, never wastes much time on the mule. Mr. Payne can afford to let the Milwaukee organ kick. It amuses the mule and injures nobody.

Head end collisions and train wrecks are of almost daily occurrence. There is evidently something wrong in the train dispatching department.

R. W. Patterson, editor of the Chicago Tribune, aspires to a cabinet position. Newspaper men are nothing, if not ambitious.

Most centrally located is the E. H. Connell cigar store on the bridge. Since making the purchase of this popular place of business Mr. Connell has made many new improvements. A news stand has been added. Every morning and evening, Chicago, Milwaukee papers are offered for sale. Papers may also be purchased on Sunday. For the holiday trade Mr. Connell has placed in stock an excellent line of the latest cigars at popular prices. His pipe stock and fine pipe smoking tobaccos make excellent gifts for Christmas.

Attractive Window Display

No window display in the city has attracted more attention this week than that made by J. P. Baker's drug store corner of Milwaukee and Franklin streets. The many useful articles shown are most appropriate for any member of the family. Special erected tables line the store loaded down with toilet sets, fancy articles, combs, brushes, mirrors and many other articles. The prices are most reasonable. The celebrated art ware is shown to advantage. Ebony sets with silver trimmings are displayed at prices that should appeal to all bargain hunters. Mr. Baker has also placed on sale a large line of military brushes. His line of fine perfumes come in all size bottles. Golf clubs, caddy bags and balls make presents that any golfer would admire.

Fine Table Assortment

Table delicacies for Christmas day are just as much of a necessity as the Christmas present. No grocery store in the city offers a more complete or more tempting assortment than C. D. Stevens, the North Main street grocer. Fine fruit of all kinds, imported Turkish figs, nuts, celery, mince meat, candied dates, cheese and small pickles form but a small part of the Christmas table suggestions at this modest grocery.

Mr. Stevens is offering the public now a line of coffees that are not excelled by the local tea and coffee stores. These coffees come at all prices the medium priced coffees being warranted to possess the flavor and strength of the coffees that many dealers sell at fancy prices.

George R. Leavitt of Beloit, was in the city yesterday on business.

is in the number of people it reaches with whom you wish to talk. The Rock Co. Telephone Co. has 800 subscribers in Janesville—twice as many as any other company—and connects with nearly 500 telephones in Beloit. And the number of independent or New phones with which it connects in this and neighboring counties, greatly exceeds that of other telephones.

A few illustrations:

STATUS OF BOER WAR.

British Troops in Splendid Condition, but More Needed.

STRAIN ON OFFICERS INTENSE.

Military Correspondent Says England's Generals in South Africa Have Worked Twelve Hours Daily For Years—The Burghers Still Hopeful.

A military correspondent of the London Times, in a message sent from Pretoria, declares that the statements that the British troops in South Africa are "stale" are untrue. He says, on the contrary, that the men are in splendid condition, and, though they would be glad to get home, they have not lost their zest for fighting. This refers both to the regulars and the volunteers attached to the various battalions. Some colonials recently recruited at South African seaports are less satisfactory, but the best colonials, those from Canada, New Zealand and Australia, are invaluable, and the new yeomanry are improving.

The correspondent says it is undeniable that the strain on the generals and their staffs is excessive. Many of these officers have worked for twelve hours daily for two years. Lord Kitchener alone seems absolutely impervious to wear and tear. The regimental officers are all right.

Re-enforcements to the number of 25,000 would be immensely valuable, says the correspondent, and would render the last stage of the war rapid and complete. The Boers keeping in the field number from 8,000 to 10,000, and they are mostly in as good condition as the British. They are seasoned soldiers and get plenty of supplies from the Kaffir kraals and from parts of the country that are only accessible to themselves. The Kaffir kraals also serve as remount depots, and for each Boer there are two Kaffirs, who, even when unarmed, are useful auxiliaries. For fighting purposes, says the correspondent, the enemy must be estimated as numbering 20,000 exceedingly mobile troops.

The Boers still believe that European intervention is imminent, that Great Britain is tired of the war and that they have only to hold out long enough in order to make the British so weary that they will surrender. The burghers are fighting to win and are convinced that they will win.

The Boers pay attention to the British press, but may not believe the politicians' speeches, as they consider politicians professional liars. They note every word indicating the weakening of British determination, lamenting the cost of the war and speaking of the international complications to which its continuance may give rise. They have no particular enmity toward the British nation and rather like the "khatkis," but their one thought is the restoration of their independence under their own flag. Openly they say that when a Liberal government comes into power they will get justice.

The correspondent dwells on the difficulties of Lord Kitchener's position. He has 3,000 miles of communication to protect, civil governments are being re-established, the English populations are being brought back, and the enemy's families are being looked after. All is being done with a much smaller number of effective troops than has been imagined.

The removal of Lord Kitchener would be fatal, says the correspondent, and would be construed by the Boers as a great triumph for themselves. He (Kitchener) knows the Boers better than any other man in South Africa, and the army trusts and believes in him.

A dispatch to the London Times from Wellington, New Zealand, says responsible New Zealanders returning from South Africa declare that more soldiers are needed to finish the war. The troops have the utmost confidence in Lord Kitchener, but his efforts are hampered by the ill advised agitation in the United Kingdom.

Anecdote of the President's Youth. Stories of President Roosevelt's youth and precocity are now coming to the fore, says the Washington correspondent of the New York World. An eastern senator starts off with this:

When Roosevelt was five years old, he came around to the family church early one Monday morning. He found the sexton busy cleaning up. Young Roosevelt opened the door and looked in. The sexton noticed him and told him to come in if he wanted to. Teddy made no reply, but carefully looked at roof, ceiling and floor. When young Roosevelt returned home, his mother asked him where he had been.

"I have been to church looking for the zeal," replied the boy.

"The zeal?" exclaimed the mother. "What do you mean?"

"Why," replied Teddy, "the preacher spoke yesterday about the 'zeal that devoureth man,' and I wanted to see it."

The president shook his head sadly when this story was told to him.

Balloon For Marconi's Experiments. William Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy, who is at St. John's, N. E., conducting experiments with his system, succeeded the other afternoon in hoisting a balloon 200 feet above the summit of Signal hill, which is 900 feet high and overlooks the harbor of St. John's, says the New York Tribune. This balloon is fastened by a series of stays which render it almost motionless. It holds up the vertical steel wire which is used in the system of wireless telegraphy in communicating with distant ships.

HEATING THE WHITE HOUSE

Open Fireplaces Made Use of by the President.

With a thought to solid comfort the architects of the White House planned an open fireplace for almost every room in the house, but not since the furnaces were put in years ago have they been generally used until the advent of President Roosevelt and his family. writes the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Press. Mrs. Roosevelt always has open fires in the rooms in which she receives her guests on reception days.

The president and, in fact, the entire family use the library more than has any president's family in many years, and an open fire glows on the hearth all the time. Each of the other living rooms have open grates, and they are kept in use most of the time. In the executive part of the White House the open fires also are used, and nothing so accentuates the southern air of the White House as the carrying of coal in huge sentries from room to room to replenish the fires.

It is a matter of uncensured interest to the northern bred children of the president to watch the firemen keep the fires going. They are planning great times for Christmas, when corn popping over the bright coals will be one of their amusements.

SAVES LIFE

Willard, Ill., August 1, 1900.

I was in bad health this spring and could not sit up in bed for four weeks. When I was confined my child died. When I began to sit up I felt so weak and had such terrible pains in my back and hips. I had kidney trouble and falling of the womb. I also had hysterical spells. I was in a bad condition when I received your "Ladies' Birthday Almanac" and read the advertisement of Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught. Since April 20th, I have taken four bottles of Wine of Cardui and three packages of Thedford's Black-Draught. I feel like a new person now. I can do all my work and can walk out to see any of my neighbors. I believe I would have been in the grave had it not been for Wine of Cardui. IT SAVED MY LIFE.

Mrs. ALICE DAVIS.

It is well that women are more patient than men. Few men could bear the bitter pangs, the agony and distress that women endure. Thousands of women have come to look upon suffering as a duty of their sex. But there are many instances of this heroic fortitude which now renders unnecessary. Women need no longer suffer for modesty's sake. Wine of Cardui brings relief to modest women in the privacy of their homes. Many of the best homes in this city are never without this great medicine. It cures whites and falling of the womb and completely eradicates these dragging periodical pains. Mrs. Davis' cure shows you conclusively what you may expect if you follow her example and take Wine of Cardui. Thedford's Black-Draught aids Wine of Cardui by regulating the stomach and bowels. When you ask your druggist for these medicines, be sure you get them. It was Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught that saved Mrs. Davis' life. Never take a substitute.

THE JERICHO P. O.

PAP PERKINS, POSTMASTER, RELATED
ANOTHER INCIDENT.

He Tells How Joab Warner and Moses Stansell's Dispute Over a Barrel of Elder Resulted in a Long Sounding Fend That Had No Ending.

(Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.)

N OBODY could ever exactly fix the date when the dispute between Joab Warner and Moses Stansell originated, but it was generally concluded that it lasted thirty-nine years before Providence put an end to it. One fall evening, when Jericho consisted of only seven houses and

JOAB AND MOSES MET AT THE POSTOFFICE, a huckleberry patch, Joab and Moses met at the postoffice, and after a little talk Joab said:

"Moses, I'm told that you've got a tolerable appetite for elder."

"Yes, tolerable," admitted Moses.

"You allus lay in a bar'l for winter?"

"I surely do."

"And what do you put into it to keep it from gettin' hard and twangy?"

"I allus use a little peppermint."

"I've heard you did, and I'm goin' to tell you of a better thing. Put in sassafras instead of peppermint, and you'll have a bar'l of elder equal to champagne. You know how folks cry for my elder along in the winter, and it's the sassafras what does it."

"Sassafras couldn't beat peppermint," says Moses as he shakes his head.

"But it does beat it all hollow," says Joab.

"You use it once, and you'll be grateful to me all the rest of your life."

"I don't doubt you mean well, Joab, but I shall stick to peppermint right along. Sassafras root is a good thing to chew on, and I like the smell in h'ar oil, but when it comes down to elder peppermint's the only thing to use. You put in three tablespoonfuls to the bar'l, and the bar'l must be rolled over twice a day."

"I'm givin' you sassafras, Moses."

"And I'm givin' you peppermint, Joab."

"Waah, I wouldn't give peppermint to a grubby calf."

"And I wouldn't give sassafras to an allin' hog."

That was the beginning of the dispute. They didn't lay hands on each other, but they felt edgeways, and they never met without bringing up the question. They had it all to themselves at first, but after a bit other folks were dragged into it, and a good share of the county was divided into "Peppermints" and "Sassafrasers." Almost every night in the year Joab and Moses met at the postoffice, and after sort of elbowing each other around for a spell Joab would say:

"Why, hello, Moses, is that you? I thought I smelt peppermint around here."

"And I smelt sassafras as soon as you left home," Moses would reply.

"Still stickin' to it, are you, that peppermint is the right thing to keep elder from gettin' too hard?"

"I am, and I allus shall, and so would any one else but a born fool."

There would be more to it, and a dozen men would go over the question and call each other fools and liars, and the trouble kept spreading. It bent Joab when he ran for supervisor, and it downed Moses when he wanted to be a deacon of his church. If a lightning rod man or a tin peddler showed up within ten miles of Jericho, they were asked for their opinion on the elder question, and the man who favored peppermint couldn't do business with the sassafrasers. Several preachers tried to smooth over the quarrel, but when they went to Joab he said:

"I'm willin' enough to be friends with Moses, but, darn his hide, he's got to drop that peppermint business first."

Then they would go to Moses and talk and argue and point out his duty, but he would shake his head and reply:

"It's no use talkin' till Joab lets go of sassafras. He's stickin' to it just because he's pigheaded and wants to come out on top."

The thing had been going on for nearly forty years, and Joab and Moses had got to be grandfathers and old men, when they met at the postoffice for the last time. Both were tottering and feeble, and as they caught sight of each other Joab called out:

"It's that blamed peppermint workin' in your system, and I don't care how soon it takes you off."

"It's that sassafras in your blood," replied Moses, "and your folks needn't expect me to come to your funeral."

The next day both of them were in bed, and after looking them over the doctor said their time had come to go. They lasted two weeks and died on the same day, but before dying Joab said to Moses:

"I ain't got no pity for sich a critter. If you'd used sassafras, you might have lived to be a hundred years old."

When Moses received the message, he braced up and sent back word:

"Nobody wants any pity from you. If thar's elder in heaven, they'll use peppermint to keep it from growin' hard!"

Constipation effects the human system very much the same as a dam would a once clear river—all rubbish accumulates at the obstruction and after awhile overflows and carries destruction to the surrounding country. The digestive organs are not doing their duty if you are constipated; the liver is not in good working order—you need a remedy, and you need it right away, if you want to prevent the trouble becoming chronic.

NEW POINT OF LAW BY SUPREME COURT

ON LIABILITY OF CITIES AND TOWNS TO DEBT LIMIT.

Circuit Court Case of Senator McGillivray's in Jackson County, is Reversed by the Higher Tribunal—The Decision is Important to Builders and Contractors.

A new point of law and one of considerable importance to persons dealing in a financial way with school districts, municipalities or other public corporations, is laid down by the supreme court in its recent decision in the case of Senator J. J. McGillivray of Black River Falls vs. Joint School District No. 1 of the towns of Melrose and Irving, in Jackson county, to recover $850 for material furnished in the erection of a new school house.

Levy Held to Be Void.
It was decided to spend $4,000 for the building and a tax for that amount was levied. But there was an existing indebtedness of $2,983.76, which was within $504.44 of the 5 per cent limit prescribed by the constitution, the assessed value of the property in the district being $71,664. Suit was brought by some of the tax payers and the levy was held to be void.

Senator McGillivray had a contract to furnish all the mill work for the building for $850. He furnished the material and when payment was refused brought suit. The circuit court decided against him, holding his contract void. The senator appealed, and the supreme court took a more liberal view of the same, and gave him judgment for the $594.44 which the district was allowed to spend.

Supreme Court Decision.
The supreme court in its decision of the case, written by Justice Dodge, says in part: "We find the direct and positive prohibitions against incurring the liability for the property and labor furnished by appellant, and that prohibition cannot be evaded by the legend of an implied contract, in which the prohibited liability may rest instead of the valid express contract. He who deals with the officers of public corporations must take notice of the limits placed by law upon the powers of those agents of the tax payers. If he becomes party however innocently, to an attempt to impose on the latter forbidden burdens, he must expect to fail."

Much Graver Question.
A much graver question, hardly suggested, and not at all argued in appellant's brief, forces itself upon our consideration. That is whether the district, having the power to incur liability to the extent of $594.44, may not be held to have done so by a promise to pay a larger amount, when as here the contract of the other party has been fully executed, and the district has obtained something that it had authority to purchase. That exact question is now in Wisconsin and not controlled by exact authority, though the principles on which it may be resolved are pretty well established.

"No rule is better settled than that in the revision of governmental acts claimed to exceed the limits imposed upon such governing bodies by the fundamental laws under which they exist, the courts will uniformly strive to give effect to such acts so far as is possible without disobeying the restrictions so imposed, and will hold acts valid up to such limit, notwithstanding some excess beyond constitutional restrictions, if the latter can be separated and can be denied efficacy without defeating the clear and obvious purpose of the whole act. Under this general rule it has been held that acts of municipal or public corporations in incurring indebtedness or in issuing bonds in excess of a limit prescribed by the constitution or by law, might be given effect up to the limit so prescribed, in a multitude of cases presenting various phases and illustrations."

Several decisions of other courts are cited in support of the position taken. The decision is an important one to contractors and others.

Governor La Follette should make sure that the train he uses for his coming campaign is equipped with a snow plow.—Hartford Press.

Sheboygan County is all right. The republicans will elect an assemblyman who will vote and work for the re-election of John C. Spooner.—Plymouth Review.

There are certain of our exchanged likening Governor La Follette to President Roosevelt. They are as near alike as the mountain lions and red squirrels.—Clintonville Tribune.

Baraboo Republic: The Milwaukee Free Press will probably attribute the appointment of Henry C. Payne to the postmaster generalship to the Sentinel and other stalwart papers of the state.

Marinette Eagle: Senator Wellington claims to have reformed, and has returned to the republican fold. He had better be very much reformed for the people and the party will finish him for good.

Whitewater Register: There are bosses and bosses, but Robert M. La Follette is the only one we know of who assumed to be both governor and legislature at the same moment.

Why don't La Follette tell the people about that special train deal? We believe that the old saying is true—Your best friend will tell you the worst—and surely he isn't friendless in the matter.—Shell Lake Watchman.

Brother Wilder remarks that as a politician, the editor of the Times lacks stability. If we only had the props around us that the esteemed Madison State Journal has, our politics would be as stable as Gibraltar. —Waupun Times.

There are a few newspapers in Wisconsin that continue to "yelp" for La Folletteism. It must take a tremendous amount of money to supply all of the others if they are subsidized as the La Follette men are pleased to state.—Menasha Evening Breeze.

Wonder if Governor La Follette will gracefully withdraw from the gubernatorial race when he realizes that for party sake, it is the best as did ex-Governor Upham?—Cambridge News.

Quite true, "Orlando," there are sincere advocates of wise measures for securing equitable taxation who are more likely to accomplish something in that direction than some who have blown a loud horn.—Eagle and Clarion Telegram.

Delavan Republican: The appointment by President Roosevelt of Henry C. Payne, of Wisconsin, to succeed Charles Emory Smith as postmaster general, will be welcomed by every resident of the Badger state, where Mr. Payne is recognized as a man of affairs, peculiarly adapted to bring to that office business sagacity and managing qualities which will bring the service to the highest point of perfection attainable.

Section 26 of the Stevens primary bill disfranchised Wisconsin voters, in that it provided for the respective county chairmen selecting candidates for the electoral ticket, taking it out of the hands of the people. This one thing, if a law, would have disfranchised the people from voting for president. Yet this measure was so drawn, no differing opinion was permitted.—Racine Journal.

Now it is threatened that if Governor La Follette is not renominated next fall, he will be an independent candidate and this is thought to be the explanation of the Kronsage circular calling for names of fair minded democrats throughout the state. Nothing proves any man's littleness in political affairs so certainly as to be an independent candidate for office.—Waukesha Freeman.

The spectacle of Governor La Follette stumping the state for the purpose of securing a renomination would be ludicrous. He should stay at the capital where he belongs and allow the voters of Wisconsin to determine whether he shall occupy the governor's chair another term or not. The office of governor is not wholly an honorary one, there is an emolument attached to it, and the governor's place is at home. We do not think, however, that Governor La Follette is considering a tour of the state seriously.—Watertown Times.

Hot boxes are peculiar to railroad traffic, and it is therefore not singular that the special train which carried Governor La Follette three or four weeks at reduced rates should have one. It is a trifle peculiar, however, that the fact was not discovered for nearly a year but that it is no doubt due to its being different from other hot boxes, and to its having a governor on board. He is still there and the smoke that arises is distasteful to those who believe in the anti-pass law.—Oconomowoc Enterprise.

The personal attack which Governor La Follette made on the members of the legislature when they objected to bowing to his dictation of the primary election bill, and preferred to pass one of their own instead of adopting his measure, was the active cause of all the trouble which now encompasses the republic as part of the state. When he sent in that message he aroused antagonism that nothing can quell, and inaugurated a selfish fight. People may differ as to the merits of the controversy, but there is no question as to how it started.—Mosine Times.

DECIDED TO SEND THEM A PRESENT

Milton Junction Young Man Advertiser for a Wife, and Receives Twenty-Three Answers.

A young man residing at Milton Junction had occasion a short time ago to insert an advertisement in one of the numerous matrimonial journals published in Chicago. He made flowery representations of his wealth and prospects and received twenty-three answers to the advertisement from women in all stages of society and of all ages and nationalities.

After looking over the list of applicants for the place as his wife, the young man concluded that he would keep all his wealth and brilliant prospects for his own personal gratification. He thought that it would be rather a mean way of doing not to remember all the fair ones that had answered his advertisement, so he decided to send them a present. He was in the city yesterday and purchased twenty-three silk handkerchiefs and will send one a Christmas present as a token of his esteem to each of the fair ones that was willing to take him for better or for worse. He says that he did not get discouraged with this plan of getting a wife and will soon insert another advertisement to get a new list to choose from.
